

Computer Lab

Communication plays a very important role in the process of education and is the basis of the interaction between the teacher and the students. AVM School leaves no stone unturned to keep its students abreast of changing times and trends and make them competent enough to take up challenges of this highly demanding world.

Communication Lab, a unique feature to enhance communication skills, sets our school apart from other schools in the region and gives our students an edge over others.

With a seating capacity of 50 students, the software-based communication Lab provides a congenial atmosphere for learning communication skills through a variety of activities. The students get a wide exposure through these activities and overcome their initial hesitation in spoken English. Continuous assessment ensures that the students achieve a high level of learning.
